

Artist: Tim Wade of Lendvadedes, Hungary

Design: This lovely flock of ‘Hungarian fan birds’ represent colored and natural-colored birds. Each fan bird is made from one-piece-of-wood. The wings are interlocked to form one fan. Their tails (hidden from view) are interlocked to create another single fan and are supporting the birds for this photo.

You can see the Slovakian influence in Tim’s birds. That culture is very near and dear to him, which I encourage you to read about his adventure there on his website below.

Tim begins every day by carving a fan bird with an Opinel knife.

Tim and Zsuzanna spend time in both places, Hungary and Wales ...where each are Master’s of their craft: Tim in wood and Zsuzanna in leather.

Timber: Norway Spruce and Noble Fir

Design: These ‘Hungarian-fan birds’ are each made from one-piece-of-wood. The wings are interlocked to form one fan. Their tails are interlocked to create another single fan. Notice the elegant detail by adding a v-scorp line (nicks or small cuts) on the edges of each feather in the wings and tail.
